Fitz Gives Good Advice—Local Sporting News.

What promised to be the greatest game of the season was stopped Wednesday afternoon by the rain. At that time the score stood 2 to 1 in favor of the Akron Elks. The brethren from Youngstown were unable to do anything with Wiley's curves. He was pitching great ball and was receiving fine support.

It was 3:35 when the game was called with the visitors at bat. The crowd was small but very enthusiastic. Hallinan was the first man to bat. He was thrown out from short to first. Brownell drove one to the second baseman who fielded it in time to catch him at the initial bag. Motz fanned. For Youngstown Middleton lined out a safe one. He reached second on Cassidy's error of Schuman's grounder. At this point Doc Brownell gave evidence that his throwing arm was still good. Middleton took a long lead off second. Brownell placed the ball in Cassidy's hands catching the base runner by 10 feet. He started for third but was unable to get by Hallinan and was called out. Corbett's pop up was caught by Motz and Schuman was doubled. In the first half of the second Noble sent eight bad ones up to the plate presenting McGarry and Cassidy with passes to first. Beck flew out to center and Wagoner's liner was nailed by the pitcher. McGarry was too far off second to get back and he was doubled. Youngstown was easy. Anderson fanned. Middleton was thrown out from third to first. Schuman walked on four bad ones but could not advance as Corbett swung after three wide ones. In Akron's half, after Sisler was thrown out from short to first, Wylie connected with a straight one putting it over the center fielder's head for two bases. Hallinan duplicated the trick and Wylie scored. Brownell fouled out and Motz was given first by being hit with the ball. It struck him on top of the head but it was a glancing blow and he was not injured. McGarry was up when a very peculiar thing occurred. He claimed that he had been hit by the ball and started for first. Hallinan was on second at the time. Umpire Alf Brewster refused to allow the claim and ordered the batter back. A kick was made and during the trouble which followed Hallinan made for home. He got there before he was discovered. Motz left first to talk it over with the umpire. He was touched with the ball and declared out. Hallinan's run counted. The first half of the fourth was short. With two out and one run in the game was stopped by the rain.

The teams batted as follows: Youngstown—Middleton, 3b; Schuman, 1b; Corbett, cf; Carson, rf; Young, 2b; Jacobs, lf; Anderson, ss; Bell, c; N. Anderson, p.

AKRON—Hallinan, 3b; Brownell, c; Motz, 1b; McGarry, cf; Cassidy, ss; Beck, lf; Wagoner, 2b; Sisler, rf; Wylie, p.

ADVICE FROM FITZ. The following good advice from Robert Fitzsimmons is printed in Hearst's Chicago American, and can be perused to advantage by young men:

"Maybe its because I'm a father that I prompted to give a word of advice to young men. Little Bob—that's my boy's name—when he grows to manhood will not be of the stoop shouldered, liquor bred, tobacco-consuming class—a curse to himself and to the world at large if I can prevent it.

"Let me tell you a truth, young men—a truth which would have made many a home happier, saved thousands of warnings of nature and not answered the pleadings of their own minds.

"Let liquor alone. Shun tobacco. Do not burn the midnight oil in the chase for pleasure.

Towering high above all things is the question of drink. Again I say leave it alone, for you may not have the power to resist once you cross the brink into the gay life of wine, women and song.

"I drink, I take my bottle of ale, but I join other things with it. Then too, I am a man, and I am not tempted to hurt myself in the vortex that leads to early death.

"With my beer or ale, I take exercise. Mental and physical exercise is necessary to healthy minds and bodies. It is the foundation upon which you should start to build.

"The world marvels at my victory in the contest with Rublin. They call me an old man. I am younger than the average man of twenty-four years, because I did not forget that I had a body to keep strong and healthy, and not to undermine with bad habits. I did not lay any snares for my own undoing.

"Again, I have a home. I have my wife and son and, in it and with them I am happy.

"Get a home, young man, and you will reap the reward.

"Extend a helping hand to nature. Care for that which has been given you and like you you will still be a young man when years are counted by scores.

IMMENSE

Improvement in Akron in Ten Years—Akron Boy Home.

Louis Wolf, of Lorain, is in the city to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Odella Wolf. He was summoned here late Tuesday night and reached the city only two hours before his mother died. Mr. Wolf left Akron ten years ago, and he remarked to the Democrat yesterday that he thinks the city has made an immense improvement in that time. Mr. Wolf is engaged in business at Lorain.

Mrs. Ralph Frank, of Davenport, Ia., was in the city for several weeks preceding her mother's death. The funeral of Mrs. Wolf will be held from St. Bernard's church Friday morning at 8:30 standard.

"Ouch!"

That is about the mildest form of outcry a man makes when rheumatism suddenly attacks him. In its worst form rheumatism is a living death. The victim, incapable of moving hand or foot, has no part in the great procession of life, on which he gazes with hopeless eyes. A great many sufferers from rheumatism, who had given up hope, have been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. A medicine which will cleanse the blood from uric acid and other poisons, will cure rheumatism.

"Golden Medical Discovery" has no equal in its power to cleanse the blood and to enrich it. It contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

"I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years," writes Mr. R. J. McKnight, of Williamsburg County, S. C. "I had at times been so lame that I could not move my legs. I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors and they gave me up to die. I did not mean to die. The pains in my back, hips, and legs (and at times in my head) would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. Everybody who saw me said I must die. I took five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four trials of 'Pellee,' and today my health is good after suffering twelve years with rheumatism."

The Experience of an Akron Citizen With the Little Conqueror.

The experience of Mrs. L. J. Pisel, related in the following words of readers. Mrs. Pisel is an Akron citizen, residing at 133 Rowery. No better proof of merit can be had than her statement. She says:

"I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective and thoroughly reliable from personal experience and from what they did for my father and my sister. My father obtained them from Lamparter & Co.'s drug store on South Howard st., and we used several boxes. I had acute lameness in my back, commonly called crick, which caught me when stooping or rising from a chair, and I was embarrassed with inactive kidneys. I found Doan's Kidney Pills prompt in relieving me of both. I know of no medicine which ever did my sister so much good as Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

His was found on the porch of his boarding house Wednesday evening in an unconscious condition.

He was carried into the dwelling and a number of physicians summoned. It was believed that he was suffering from the effects of poison but an examination failed to substantiate this original diagnosis of the case. His eyes were wide open, but set, and he was unconscious. It is now believed that this was due to some nervous trouble. After working with him all night the physicians pronounced him out of danger.

It is believed that another game will be arranged between the Elks and Kirkwoods, to be played on the Buchtel College grounds one week from Saturday.

GRANT CLUB

Will be Organized by Democrats of Springfield Township.

The Democrats of Mogadore and vicinity are going to organize a club for campaign work and the Democrat was informed today that it would be named the Grant Club, in honor of Judge Chas. R. Grant of Akron.

The voters out that way think a great deal of Judge Grant and they are going to invite him to deliver an address to them upon the night of the club's organization.

BROKEN BRIC-A-BRACS.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement.

The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than any other cement with which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best material, even his covered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive, and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $25 a barrel, and another costs $25 a barrel, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than a mixture of glue, dissolved in water or citric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials.

Major's cement retails at 15 cents and 25 cents a barrel, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profit.

The profit on Major's cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is doubly true in view of the fact that each dealer gets his share of the benefit of Mr. Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $500 a month, throughout the country. Established in 1866.

Do not have Major's. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist. You are at all hands, and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement.

And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you save this way. Your druggist can't supply you. It will be forwarded by mail, either kind. Free of postage.

DOES HONESTY PAY?

A SUBJECT DISCUSSED BY THE JERICHO DEBATING SOCIETY.

Joe Perkins, the Postmaster, Tells How the Organization Was Started and How It Came to an Untimely and Inglorious End.

(Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.)

The Jericho Debating society was Squar Joslyn's idea. It dawned on him one afternoon as he was hoeing in his garden, and that evening he came over to the postoffice and made a speech and started the ball rolling.

A week later the society had its first meeting. There was a hot time fur about an hour. Of the 40 men present 35 wanted to be president, but after awhile, and by putting in two votes fur himself, the squar was duly elected. Deacon Spooner was made referee, and the other officers wasn't struggled after to any extent. There wasn't any debating at the first meeting, but Squar Joslyn made a speech of acceptance which raised the price of butter in Jericho 10 cents a pound. After sayin that he wouldn't exchange places with the president of the United States he began with the year 750 B. C., and the way he come whirling along down to the year 1900 made the glass in the windows rattle. He excited the crowd as he hit Nero, brought applause as he touched on Columbus, and when he got through with Washington there wasn't no holdin Enos Williams, and Jonas Bebee and Aaron Bradshaw was in tears. After the speech was over Elder Spooner figured it up and declared that the squar had made 27 different puns in his oration, which was four puns more than Demosthenes or Cicero had ever made.

The subject fur debate at the next meeting was "Does Honesty Pay?" The about made up his mind to commit suicide when he found a five dollar goldpiece in the road. His first thought was to use the money to start in business, but it was only a temptation. His honesty wouldn't permit such a thing. He went around inquiring who had lost $5, and at length found the owner, and the owner took a likin to him and pushed him along until he was finally made a king."

"That's one tally mark fur the affirmative side," said the deacon as the speaker sat down, "and I decide that Ebenezer has made five puns. We will now hear from Jonas Bebee on the negative side."

"Foller me back to the days of Julius Caesar," began Jonas as he rose up. "I object," protested Ebenezer. "Havin follerin me back, the meetin can't foller Jonas. I appeal to the referee."

"I shall have to overrule the objection," said the deacon. "We foller Ebenezer back, and we must give Jonas jest as good a show. If he's got anything new about Julius Caesar, we'd like to hear it."

"When Caesar was a young man of 22, he hadn't a dollar to his name," continued Jonas. "and, though he offered to dig out stumps fur 15 cents a day, he couldn't hit a job. He had made up his mind to hang himself when he found a stray mewl in the woods. He knew he ought to advertise the mewl and restore him to his owner, but dishonesty carried the day. He sold the critter to the first man who would buy, and with the $12 he received he went into politics and pushed along until he finally became one of the greatest men of his time. He lived fur 30 years after stealin that mewl, and he was honored and respected and had a good time and died lamented by all."

"That's a tally mark on the negative side," said the deacon, "and the puns seem to be about even."

"But whar did Jonas git his facts?" asks Ebenezer.

"Whar did you git yours?" asked Jonas in reply.

The deacon said the squakin had best continue, and he called upon Aaron Bradshaw, who was on the affirmative side, fur his argyument.

"Foller me back to the days of Julius Caesar," began Aaron, with a wave of his hand, but when he had got that fur both Ebenezer and Jonas tried to yell him down and appeal to the referee.

"I've got to give Aaron a fair show," replied the deacon. "If he wants to be follerin back to the days of Julius Caesar, this society has got to tag along behind him. It's rather a cur's coincidence that the three of you want to be follerin back to the same man, but that's none of my business. Go on, Aaron."

Aaron went on. He had it that Caesar was poor and out of a job and discouraged when he happened to find a diamond ring in a mudhole. He could have got an advance of $50 on it at a pawnbroker's, but he actually went hungry fur three days while huntin up the loser. Struck by such a display of unselfish honesty, the owner presented him with $75, took him under his wing and in time made him king."

"That's another tally fur the affirmative," said the deacon, "and I guess I'll give Aaron the same number of puns as the rest. Alvin Bidwell, of the negatives, is hitchin around in an anxious way, and we'll hear whar he's got to say in favor of dishonesty."

"Foller me back to the days of Julius Caesar," began Alvin in his rambling voice, but that was yells and whoops and protests from Ebenezer, Jonas and Aaron.

"It's a cur's coincidence, I'll admit," said the deacon when he could be heard, "but I don't see how we kin help but foller Alvin back if he insists upon it. Everybody must have a fair show. Alvin, hadn't you as lief be follerin back to the garden of Eden or Dan'l in the lions' den?"

Alvin stuck fur Julius Caesar and went ahead. He found Julius poor and discouraged and livin on turnips, and he related how the young man sat down and thought it all over and then decided to steal a hog. He stole one, sold him fur $8, doubled his money on a horse race and finally made a place and name for himself. Had he continued to be honest he would have starved to death and been buried at the expense of the town. His dishonesty enabled him to become king and to do good to millions.

"The unties are even so fur," said the deacon as Alvin sat down, "and we'll now hear from Philletus Johnson on the affirmative side."

"Foller me back to the days of Julius Caesar," began Philletus as he rose up, and then that was a row. It was a full ten minits before order was restored, and durin that time most everybody got his head punched at least once and his coat torn up the back. By and by Deacon Spooner said:

"It's a shame and a disgrace to the town of Jericho to carry on in this way. I notice that Lish Billings, who don't belong on either side, has jest come in. Lish, do you want to say anything?"

"Not very much," replied Lish as he looked around. "I'd simply like to ask if anybody here has lost this half dollar."

He held up the coin in his fingers. There was 47 men in the room, and every single one of 'em, includin the deacon and the squar, replied that it was his.

"As to the Debatin society, it may be a good thing," said Lish as a grin spread over his face; "but, as to the subject of discussion tonight, I guess you'd better drop it and let it stay dropped. This half dollar has bin in my pocket fur two weeks, and every one of you was willin to lie to git hold of it."

Then Lish moved softly down stairs and went home, and after the rest of the crowd had sat and looked at each other fur two or three minits in an uncomfortable way the president put on his hat and said:

"Instead of follerin anybody else back to the days of Julius Caesar, I guess we'd better foller Lish Billings down stairs and call the thing bust-ed."
